1. Everyone shall have the right to request public information regardless of its physical form and storage condition, and to choose the form of receiving public information if it is of different types, and to read the original of the information. If there is a risk of damaging the original copy, the public institution shall provide an opportunity for reading it under supervision, or shall present a duly certified copy.

2. A person shall submit a written application to obtain public information. It shall not be required to indicate the reason or purpose of requesting the public information in the application. When submitting an application to request a commercial secret of another person, an applicant shall submit the consent of a person concerned certified by a notary or an administrative body, except as provided for by law.

3. Public information may be requested electronically, through electronic resources of a public institution.

4. The standard for requesting public information electronically shall be approved by appropriate subordinate normative acts.

Law of Georgia No 6327 of 25 May 2012 – website, 12.6.2012

Article 37¹ – Access to personal data and information belonging to commercial secret by public institutions

1. A public institution shall, based on an appropriate written request, issue to another public institution, as a reference, the personal data and information belonging to a commercial secret stored at the public institution, when it is necessary for the public institution to resolve an issue. In this event, the other public institution shall submit a written consent of a person whose personal data or commercial secret is the information concerned.

2. The written consent referred to in paragraph 1 of this article shall be deemed granted if a person expresses his/her consent in an application or any other written document that the public institution, which he/she requests to solve the issue, makes a requisition itself for that person's personal data or information belonging to a commercial secret from the appropriate public institution.

3. Bodies issuing or requesting another person's personal data or information belonging to a commercial secret shall keep the aforementioned data or information confidential.

Law of Georgia No 2542 of 27 December 2005 – LHG I, No 1, 4.1.2006, Art. 8

Article 38 – Access to a copy of public information

Public institutions shall ensure access to copies of public information. Charging any fees for issuing public information other than the cost of making copies shall not be permitted.

Article 40 – Issuance of public information

1. A public institution shall issue public information, including public information requested electronically, immediately or not later than 10 days if a reply to the request for public information requires:

- a) retrieving of information from its structural subdivisions in another locality or from another public institution, and its processing;
 - b) retrieving and processing of individual uncorrelated documents of considerable size;
 - c) consulting with its own subdivision in another locality or with another public institution.
2. If a 10-day period is required for issuing public information, a public institution shall notify the applicant of it upon request.
3. Proactive publication of public information shall not release a public institution from the obligation to duly issue the same or other public information when requested.

- b) the basic principles and core areas of activities of a public institution;
- c) the description of the structure of a public institution, the procedure for defining and distributing the functions of employees, and the decision-making procedure;
- d) the names and employment addresses of the state employees and public servants of a public institution that hold positions or are responsible for classification of public information or for public relations and provision of information to citizens;
- e) the results of open voting held at a collegial public institution for making a decision;
- f) all the information related to the election of a person to an elective position;
- g) the results of audit reports and inspections regarding the activity of a public institution, and the judicial records of the proceedings a public institution is a party to;
- h) the name and location of the public database within the responsibility of a public institution, and the name and the employment address of a person responsible for the public database and of a personal data protection officer (if any);
- i) the purposes of, the areas of use and a legal basis for collecting, processing, storing and dispersing data by a public institution;
- j) the presence or absence of his/her personal data in a public database, and the procedure for accessing them, including the procedure used for identifying a person if he/she (or his/her representative) applies for reviewing his/her own personal data or making changes thereto;
- k) the category of persons authorised by law to access the personal data in the public database;
- l) the content and sources of the data in the public database, and the category of persons about whom information is collected, processed and stored;
- m) all other information which, in cases provided for and under the procedure determined by law, is not considered the state, commercial or professional secret or is not personal data.

Article 53 – Substantiation of the administrative act

1. An individual administrative act issued in writing must include a written substantiation.
2. Substantiation shall precede the operative part of an administrative act.
3. An administrative act must make a reference to a legislative or subordinate normative act, or an appropriate standard thereof which has served as a basis for issuing the administrative act. The administrative act may also make a reference to the standards of the European Convention on Human Rights and its additional protocols, and test cases of a similar legal issue used by the European Court of Human Rights when making a judgment.
4. If an administrative body was acting within discretionary powers when issuing an administrative act, all the factual circumstances that were of essential importance at the time of issuance of the administrative act shall be specified in the written substantiation.
5. An administrative body shall not be authorised to base its decision on the circumstances, facts, evidence or arguments that were not examined and studied during the course of administrative proceedings.
6. If the law provides for an expert opinion for issuing an administrative act, the content of the opinion shall be included in the written substantiation.
7. An individual administrative act issued in writing shall not require substantiation if:
 - a) it has been issued at the request of an interested party and does not restrict the legal rights and interests of third persons;
 - b) an interested party is aware of the factual and legal preconditions having served as a basis for issuing the aforementioned individual administrative act;
 - c) the law provides for a possibility of its issuance without a written substantiation.
8. When issuing a written administrative act in urgent need without a written substantiation, the written substantiation must be prepared within one week after the individual administrative act is issued.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 60¹ – Declaration of the administrative act as void

1. An administrative act shall be void if it contradicts the law or if other requirements determined by law for drafting or issuing it have been substantially violated.
2. Issuance of an administrative act at a session held in violation of the procedure under Article 32 or 34 of this Code or in breach of the type of administrative proceedings provided for by law, and/or such violation of the law, which would result in making a different decision on the given question if the violation didn't exist, shall be considered as a substantial violation of the procedure for drafting or issuing an administrative act.
3. An administrative act shall be declared void by its issuing administrative body, and a compliant or an appeal shall be declared void by a superior administrative body or a higher court.
4. An unlawful enabling administrative act may not be declared void if an interested party has taken legal reliance on the administrative act, except when the administrative act substantially breaches the national, public or another person's legal rights or interests.
5. Legal reliance of an interested party shall exist if it has carried out an act of legal significance on the basis of an administrative act and it will suffer damage by invalidating an illegal administrative act. Legal reliance shall not exist if it is based on an illegal act of an interested party.
6. If an enabling administrative act, which violates the national, public or another person's legal rights and interests, has been declared void, under the circumstance provided for in paragraph 5 of this article, the interested party must be compensated for the damages it suffered by the invalidation of the administrative act, based on the mutual balance between private and public interests.
7. An administrative body or court shall define the legal implications of terminating an administrative act along with the declaration of the administrative act as void. An administrative act may be terminated:
 - a) from the date of its entry into force;
 - b) from the date of its declaration as void;
 - c) in the future, by indicating a specific date.

7¹. If an administrative act issued within the framework of exercising by the National Bank of Georgia of the resolatory powers under the Law of Georgia on the National Bank of Georgia is declared void, a court may impose on the National Bank of Georgia to compensate only for the actually existing damage. The state that existed before the aforementioned act was declared void may not be restored if the restoration of this state may put the stable operation of the financial sector at risk.

8. An administrative act shall be declared void under the procedure determined for adopting an administrative act.

Article 61 – Declaration of the administrative act as invalid

1. An administrative body that has issued an administrative act shall have the right to declare it invalid.

2. An administrative body shall not be authorised to declare an enabling administrative act issued under the law as invalid, except when:

a) it is directly specified in the law or in a subordinate normative act of a superior body issued under the law;

b) it is directly specified in an administrative act, under the legislation;

c) an interested party has failed to fulfil its obligation under the administrative act, which may serve as a basis for declaring the administrative act invalid under the legislation;

d) an appropriate normative act has been annulled or replaced thus depriving the administrative body of the opportunity to issue such an administrative act, and the effect of the administrative act may substantially prejudice national or public interests;

e) there is a recently detected or revealed circumstance, or an appropriate scientific and technical discovery or invention thus depriving the administrative body of the opportunity to issue such an administrative act, and the effect of the administrative act may substantially prejudice the national or public interests;

3. An administrative act shall be declared invalid under the procedure determined for the issuance of an administrative act.

4. Where so provided for in paragraphs (2)(d) and (e) of this article, an interested party that suffered damages shall be compensated at his/her request if he/she had a ground for legal reliance on the effect of an administrative act. In this case, Article 60(5) of this Code shall apply.

5. The amount of damage compensation shall be determined by the administrative body that declared the administrative act invalid on the basis of a balance between public and private interests.

6. Declaration as invalid shall mean the termination of the effect of an administrative act upon the date of its declaration as invalid. When an administrative act is declared invalid on the basis provided for in paragraph 2(c) of this article, it shall be possible to cancel the legal implications arising from the entry of the administrative act into force.

7. Declaration of an administrative act as invalid shall not entail cancelling the legal implications that arose before it was declared invalid.

1. An application must be in a written form and include:

- a) the name of an administrative body to which the applicant has applied;
- b) the identity and the address of the applicant;
- c) the request;
- d) the date of submitting the application and signature of the applicant;
- e) the list of documents attached to the application, if any.

2. All the documents that an applicant is obliged to submit under the law must be attached to the application.

3. An applicant shall have the right to submit to the administrative body concerned all other documents that may serve as a basis for issuing the individual administrative act requested by the applicant.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 79 – Registration of the application

1. An administrative body shall register an application under the procedure determined by the legislation on the very day of receiving it and put the date and number of registration to it.

2. An administrative body shall send (deliver) to the applicant the confirmation of application registration immediately upon his/her request.

Article 80 – Forwarding of the application to the authorised administrative body

1. If the resolution of an issue requested in the application falls within the scope of another administrative body, the administrative body shall, no later than five days, forward the application with the attached documents to the authorised administrative body.

2. Unless otherwise provided for by law, any opinion for resolving the issues raised in the application may not be presented when forwarding the application to the authorised administrative body.

3. The applicant shall be notified within two days in writing about forwarding the application and the documents attached, along with appropriate substantiation, to the authorised administrative body.

4. If the issue specified in the application is within jurisdiction of a court or an authorised administrative body cannot be identified, the administrative body shall return the application, along with the appropriate substantiation, to the applicant within five days after its submission.

5. The statutory time limit for submitting an application shall also be deemed observed if a person has submitted the application to an unauthorised administrative body within the statutory time limit.

Law of Georgia No 6327 of 25 May 2012 – website, 12.6.2012

Article 83 – Submission of additional information; dismissal of the application without prejudice

1. An administrative body shall, within three days, verify the compliance of an application against the requirements of Article 78 of this Code.

2. If an applicant fails to submit to an administrative body any document or other information provided for by law or a subordinate act issued on the basis of the law, which is required to make a decision over the case, the administrative body shall set a period for the applicant during which he/she must submit an additional document or information.

3. Unless otherwise determined by law, the period set for submitting an additional document or other information may not be less than five days. An administrative body shall be authorised to extend the period for submitting a document or other information at the request of the applicant, but only once and by no longer than 15 days.

4. Unless otherwise determined by law, the running of the time limit for reviewing an application shall be deemed suspended until an additional document or other information is submitted.

5. If an applicant fails to submit the required document or information within the set time limit, an administrative body shall be authorised to make the decision on dismissing the application without prejudice.

6. The running of the time limit for reviewing an application shall be resumed upon submission of the required document or information.

Article 84 – Participation of another administrative body in administrative proceedings

1. An administrative body shall send a copy of the application and the attached documents, within three days after establishing compliance of the application with Article 78, to an administrative body or a public expert who has been granted the right by law to participate in administrative proceedings.
2. Unless a different time limit is set by the legislation, an administrative body and/or a public expert shall present the opinion within two weeks.
3. Unless otherwise determined by law, failure of the administrative body and/or the public expert to present the opinion or presentation of a negative opinion by them within the set time limit shall not impede review of the application and resolution of the issues raised therein.

Law of Georgia No 772 of 2 March 2001 – LHG I, No 6, 20.3.2001, Art. 8

Article 85 – Obligation of the administrative body to render legal assistance

1. An administrative body shall explain to an interested party its rights and duties, familiarise it with the application review procedure, the type and time limit of the proceedings, and the requirements that an application or an administrative complaint must comply with, and point out the errors made in the application.
2. An administrative body must provide information and consultation to a child considering cultural sensitivity, based on his/her age, sex and individual capabilities, in a language he/she understands and/or with the use of other auxiliary means of communication.

Article 86 – The right of representation

1. Everyone shall have the right to conduct relations with an administrative body through a representative, and to enjoy assistance of a defence attorney.
2. An administrative body shall require that the representative present a document evidencing his/her representation.
3. An administrative body shall not be authorised to require that an interested party conduct relations with an administrative body through a representative, except as specifically provided for by law.

Article 87 – The representative in administrative proceedings

1. If an applicant or another interested party has appointed a representative, an administrative body shall forward all documents designated for the interested party to the representative.
2. Unless otherwise determined by law, an administrative body shall refer to the representative with regard to all issues concerning administrative proceedings.
3. An interested party represented by another person shall be authorised to attend all oral hearings.

Article 88 – Obligation to appoint the representative

1. An interested party participating in administrative proceedings, who has no permanent residence in Georgia or is registered without indication of the address, shall, within three days after the request of an administrative body, appoint as a representative a legally competent person registered at a specific address in Georgia. All documents designated for the interested party shall be forwarded to the representative.
2. If a person fails to meet the requirement specified in paragraph 1 of this article, an administrative body shall be relieved of the responsibility for failure to forward the document. However, this fact may not serve as a basis for declaring an individual administrative act void, except as determined by law.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 89 – Mandatory appointment of the representative by the applicant

1. If an application has been submitted by more than 25 persons, the signatories to the application shall, within the time limit set by an administrative body, appoint one representative who shall be authorised to conduct relations with the administrative body.
2. Only a natural person may be appointed as a representative.
3. If the representative refuses to exercise his/her powers, the administrative body shall set a time limit to the applicants for appointing a new representative.

Article 90 – Appointment of the representative at the initiative of the administrative body

If the persons provided for by Article 89(1) of this Code fail to appoint a representative within the period set by the administrative body, the first person signing the application shall be considered their representative.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 91 – Reimbursement of administrative proceedings costs

Each party shall reimburse the costs related to the administrative proceedings that it incurred at its initiative or in its favour.

Article 93 – Application for recusal

1. An interested party participating in the administrative proceedings, who believes that there is a ground for recusing an official of an administrative body participating in the administrative proceedings, shall have the right under Article 91 of this Code to ask for his/her recusal in writing before issuance of an individual administrative act.

2. The application for recusal must be substantiated.

3. The application for recusal shall be reviewed and the issue of recusal or self-recusal shall be solved by a senior official of the official whose recusal was requested. If there is no senior official, the aforementioned issue shall be solved by a head official of a superior body.

4. The issue of recusing an official, who is a member of a collegial body, shall be solved by the collegial body without participation of the official.

5. In the case of recusal or self-recusal of the entire collegial body or of the number of members of the collegial body that causes the body to lose authority to make a decision, and in the case of recusal or self-recusal of an official that has no superior body, an individual administrative act shall be issued by a person performing his/her duties and appointed under the legislation for resolving this issue, or by an independent body.

6. An interested party participating in administrative proceedings shall submit an application for recusal within two days after initiation of the administrative proceedings or within two days from the moment when the fact or circumstance serving as a basis for recusal becomes known to the party.

Article 94 – Time limit in administrative proceedings; restoration of laches

1. The procedure established by Articles 59-69 of the Civil Procedure Code of Georgia shall apply when calculating the time limit in administrative proceedings.

2. If an interested party is obliged to adhere to the set time limit, the running of the time limit shall begin only from the day when the document or information in question is forwarded to the interested party or from the day when this information is published.

3. The elapsed deadline must be restored if an interested party has unintentionally missed the time limit set by law or an administrative body – because of force majeure, illness, a fault of the administrative body or for other good reason.

4. An interested party shall apply in writing to the administrative body for restoring the elapsed time limit not later than 15 days from eliminating the circumstances specified in paragraph 3 of this article. The appropriate documents and materials evidencing existence of the good reason for the laches must be attached to the application.

5. The administrative body shall review the application for restoring the elapsed time limit within five days.

6. The administrative body may also restore the time limit set by the same administrative body and missed by an interested party for good reason, unless it is prohibited by law and it prejudices a right or a legal interest of a third person.

Article 95 – Participation of the interested party in administrative proceedings

1. An administrative body shall be authorised to invite an interested party to participate in the administrative proceedings at its request, and where so defined by law, the administrative body shall ensure participation of the interested party in the administrative proceedings.
 2. An administrative body shall notify an interested party of initiation of the administrative proceedings if an individual administrative act may worsen its legal status, and shall ensure its participation in the administrative proceedings.
 3. Unless otherwise determined by law, an administrative body shall invite a person with the right of participation in the administrative proceedings to participate in the administrative proceedings at his/her written request.
 4. If the number of persons with the right of participation in the administrative proceedings exceeds 50, an administrative body may officially publish a notice about the administrative proceedings instead of informing each person.
 5. The notice about administrative proceedings must contain:
 - a) the name and the address of the administrative body where the administrative proceedings are conducted;
 - b) the date of initiating the administrative proceedings;
 - c) a brief description of the subject of administrative proceedings;
 - d) the identities of the interested parties to the proceedings;
 - e) the time limit for issuing an individual administrative act.
 6. In a case of emergency, when the delay in issuing an individual administrative act may substantially prejudice public or private interests, an administrative body may make a justified decision to issue the individual administrative act without adhering to the requirements of paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article.
- Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245*

Article 96 – Investigation of circumstances of the case

1. An administrative body shall investigate all circumstances that are significant to the case during the course of administrative proceedings and make the decision on the basis of evaluation and mutual comparison of the circumstances.
2. Issuance of an individual administrative act may not be based on a circumstance or a fact that is not investigated by the administrative body under the procedure determined by law.
3. An administrative body shall have no right to refuse to accept an application or a motion regarding an issue falling within its powers without a preliminary investigation on the ground that the application or the motion is inadmissible or unsubstantiated.
4. An interested party shall cooperate with an administrative body during the course of administrative proceedings under the procedure determined by the legislation.
5. An interested party shall appear before the administrative body and give an explanation only when it is directly provided for by law.

Article 97 – Investigation of evidence in administrative proceedings

1. Based on the circumstances of a case, an administrative body shall be authorised to:
 - a) request documents;
 - b) collect necessary information;
 - c) hear the interested parties;
 - d) examine the scene of an event or an incident;
 - e) schedule an examination;
 - f) use necessary documents and acts;
 - g) apply other measures provided for by the legislation in order to collect, examine and evaluate evidence.
2. A witness or an expert shall give an explanation to an administrative body only in cases clearly defined by law. Explanations shall be accepted under the Civil Procedure Code of Georgia.

Article 98 – The right of the interested party to express the personal opinion

1. An interested party participating in administrative proceedings shall have the right to submit evidence, and motions for investigating the circumstances of the case.
2. An administrative body shall make one of the following decisions with respect to a motion within two days:
 - a) on granting the motion;
 - b) on refusing to grant the motion.
3. The right of a child to be heard may not be restricted with the indication of his/her age or another circumstance. A child must be given an opportunity to express his/her own opinion in his/her desirable form.
4. Child-oriented administrative proceedings must be conducted with the uppermost consideration of the best interests of a child, which implies available and perceivable procedures for the child at all stages of the proceedings.

Article 99 – The right to access materials of administrative proceedings

1. An interested party participating in administrative proceedings shall have the right to access materials of the administrative proceedings, except for the materials that are the documents of intra-agency character directly related to the preparation of an individual administrative act.
2. If the interest of accessing a document prevails over the interest of keeping it confidential, in cases provided for by law and by a court decision, the case materials containing personal data, or state or commercial secrets shall also be provided to an interested party for review.
3. The interested party shall access materials of the administrative proceedings at the administrative body conducting the administrative proceedings.
4. In a special situation, an interested party may access materials of administrative proceedings at another administrative body on written request, and at the diplomatic mission or consular office of Georgia in another country.
5. An interested party participating in administrative proceedings shall have the right to request copies of the documents and other materials in the administrative proceedings. Copies of the case materials containing personal data, state or commercial secrets shall be forwarded to the interested party participating in the administrative proceedings only in cases provided for by law, by a court decision.
6. No payment may be imposed nor may other obstacles be created for obtaining a copy of a document or other materials other than the payment for making their copy, and for sending them by post.

Article 100 – Making of a decision

1. Unless otherwise determined by law or by an act issued on its basis, an administrative body shall make a decision on issuing or refusing to issue an individual administrative act within one month after an application is submitted.
2. Unless otherwise determined law, an individual administrative act not related to the interests of a third party must be issued within 15 days after an application is submitted.
3. If, in order to establish circumstances of substantial significance to a case, a time limit longer than it is provided for by the legislation for issuing an individual administrative act is required, an administrative body shall, when the administrative proceedings are initiated, make a decision on defining the time limit for issuing the individual administrative act.
4. Where so provided for in paragraph 3 of this article, the overall time limit for issuing an individual administrative act must not exceed three months.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 101 – Presentation of the personal opinion by the applicant when refused to issue the individual administrative act

1. Before issuing an individual administrative act on the refusal to grant an application, an administrative body shall give an applicant an opportunity to present his/her personal opinion with regard to the circumstances being the grounds for refusing the application when:
 - a) the refusal is based on the information about the applicant;
 - b) information the refusal is based on is different from the information presented by the applicant.
2. The requirement under paragraph 1 of this article shall not apply if the applicant has already presented his/her personal opinion with regard to the aforementioned circumstance and in emergency cases, when the delay in issuing an individual administrative act may substantially prejudice the public interest. In such a case, the administrative body shall specify the emergency.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 102 – Procedure for resubmitting an application on one and the same issue

1. An application concerning the issue with regard to which there is an individual administrative act issued by an administrative body on refusing to grant an application or a complaint, may only be submitted if the actual or legal situation that has served as a basis for issuing the individual administrative act has changed in favour of the interested party, or if there are newly discovered or newly revealed circumstances (evidence) that ensure issuance of a more favourable individual administrative act for the applicant.
2. If there are no newly discovered or newly revealed circumstances in the application, the administrative body shall issue an individual administrative act to dismiss the application without reviewing it. The legal act that served as a basis for refusing to grant the application must be indicated in the individual administrative act.
3. An application for resuming the administrative proceedings shall be accepted only if the failure to submit the aforementioned circumstances or facts during the administrative proceedings was not caused by the applicant.

Article 106² – Publication of the draft normative administrative act of the collegial administrative body

1. The draft normative administrative act must be published in accordance with the procedures provided for in Articles 55 and 56 of this Code or on the website of a collegial administrative body.

2. A notice of the administrative proceedings must also be published along with the draft normative administrative act.

3. The following details shall be specified in the notice of the administrative proceedings:

- a) the name of a collegial administrative body where the administrative proceedings are conducted;

- b) the time limit for adopting the normative administrative act;
- c) the address of a collegial administrative body to whom opinions can be submitted;
- d) the time limit for submitting the opinions.

4. If the draft normative administrative act is large in volume and a collegial administrative body has no own website, the collegial administrative body shall be authorised to only publish a notice of the administrative proceedings for adopting the normative administrative act. In such a case, the name and a brief summary of the normative administrative act shall be indicated in the notice.

Law of Georgia No 1886 of 22 October 2009 – LHG I, No 33, 9.11.2009, Art. 208

Article 106³ – Submission of opinions by administrative bodies or the public expert

1. A draft normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body must be sent to the administrative bodies that are authorised to regulate legal relations provided for by the normative administrative act or part thereof. It must also be sent to the aforementioned administrative bodies when it is directly provided for by law, or if the law requires that the administrative bodies present opinions with regard to such normative administrative act.

2. The draft normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body must also be sent to a public expert if the law requires that the expert present an opinion.

3. The administrative bodies, and the public expert, to whom the draft normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body has been sent, shall submit their own opinions on the draft normative administrative act within the time limit set by the legislation of Georgia or the respective collegial administrative body. The time limit may not be less than 10 days.

4. The opinion presented by another administrative body must be reviewed before the administrative proceedings are completed and must be replied in written form.

5. Unless otherwise determined by law, the failure of another administrative body or the public expert to present an opinion within the set time limit may not impede the adoption of a normative administrative act by a collegial administrative body.

6. A normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body may not be adopted without the opinion of a respective administrative body if the opinion is required by law or by an act issued on its basis.

7. Unless otherwise determined by law, a negative opinion shall not impede the adoption of a normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body.

Law of Georgia No 1886 of 22 October 2009 – LHG I, No 33, 9.11.2009, Art. 208

Article 106⁴ – Submission of personal opinion

1. Everyone shall have the right to submit a personal opinion with respect to a draft normative administrative act of a collegial administrative body.

2. Each opinion on a draft normative administrative act must be reviewed by a respective collegial administrative body. It shall not be necessary to reply to an opinion.

3. A person shall be authorised not to indicate his/her identity when submitting his/her personal opinion.

4. A collegial administrative body shall send the opinions presented by private persons to another respective administrative body and a public expert within one day after registration.

Article 110 – Oral hearing

1. An administrative body shall make a decision only on the basis of holding an oral hearing.

2. Interested parties must be notified of an oral hearing at least 7 days before holding it and must be invited to participate in the oral hearing.

3. The power of the administrative body to review the case and make a decision even without participation of an interested party shall be indicated in the invitation, except as provided for by law.

4. If the number of interested parties exceeds 50, an administrative body shall be authorised to invite the interested parties to participate in the oral hearing through publication of a notice in the official gazette. The notice must contain the subject of the oral hearing, the name of the administrative body holding the hearing, the grounds for initiating the administrative proceedings, and the time and place of the hearing.

5. The oral hearing, normally, must not continue for more than one working day.

Article 111 – Procedure for holding oral hearing

1. A session of an oral hearing shall be public. The chairperson of a session shall be authorised to declare the session closed to ensure confidentiality of personal data, state, commercial or professional secrets.

2. An authorised official of an administrative body shall open and chair the session.

3. An authorised official of an administrative body, a representative of a superior body, an interested party, an expert invited to the hearing and a witness shall have the right to participate in an oral hearing.

4. The chairperson of the session shall ensure examination of the significant circumstances of the case at the oral hearing and to allow an interested party to express its opinion with respect to the case.

5. An interested party shall have the right to submit a motion for examining the significant circumstances of the case.

6. The chairperson of the session shall ensure order at the session. He/she shall be authorised to warn an offender, and in a particular case, he/she shall expel him/her from the hall.

7. The session may continue without participation of the expelled person.

Law of Georgia No 6327 of 25 May 2012 – website, 12.6.2012

Article 112 – Minutes of the oral hearing session

1. Minutes shall be maintained at the session.

2. The following details shall be indicated in the minutes of the session:

a) the name of administrative proceedings with regard to which the hearing is held;

Article 166 – Administrative proceedings for issuing the decision on ensuring enforcement

1. The requirements determined by Articles 95 and 98 of this Code shall not apply to the administrative proceedings for issuing a decision on ensuring enforcement.

2. In an emergency, when the national or public security, health of the population, human lives are put at risk, or when a criminal action cannot be otherwise prevented, a decision on ensuring enforcement may be issued verbally.

3. A decision on ensuring enforcement must be issued in writing within three days after applying an enforcement measure under Chapter IV of this Code.

Article 167 – Time limit for voluntary execution of the individual administrative act

1. A person, in relation to whom a means of enforcement is applied, must be granted a time limit for voluntary execution of an individual administrative act.

2. An administrative body shall exactly define which action a person is assigned to carry out to enforce the individual administrative act.

3. A person shall have the right to fulfil the appropriate obligation via the most convenient means for him/her.

4. A means of enforcement shall not be applied to a person who fulfils the obligation specified in the decision on ensuring enforcement within the set time limit. If the person fulfils the appropriate obligation within the set time limit, the decision on enforcement shall cease to be effective.

5. In the case of emergency specified in Article 166 of this Code, the time limit may not be defined.

Article 168 – Payment of the enforcement-related expenses

1. Unless otherwise determined by law or an individual administrative act issued on its basis, expenses related to the enforcement of the individual administrative act shall be borne by a person obliged to enforce the individual administrative act.

2. If no time limit has been defined for a person to voluntarily enforce an individual administrative act in the case provided for by Article 167(5) of this Code, the enforcement-related expenses shall be borne by the State or an appropriate municipality, respectively, except when the urgent necessity was caused by an action of a person who was obliged to enforce the individual administrative act.

Article 169 – Means for ensuring enforcement

1. An administrative body shall have the right, after expiration of the time limit allowed to a person for the voluntary enforcement of an individual administrative act, to apply one of the following means to ensure enforcement of the individual administrative act:

- a) designation of another person to enforce the individual administrative act;
- b) a penalty;
- c) direct coercion.

2. An administrative body shall have the right to apply only the enforcement means provided for in the decision on ensuring the enforcement.

3. An administrative body shall have the right to choose only the means of enforcement that ensures execution of the individual administrative act in the fastest way and with the least expense and causes no harm to the public and to a person concerned.

4. Application of a means of enforcement must be terminated after the individual administrative act is enforced.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 170 – Assignment of the enforcement of the individual administrative act to another person

1. If an individual administrative act can be enforced by another person, an administrative body shall have the right to assign another person to enforce the act in accordance with the procedures determined by this Code and other legislative acts of Georgia.

2. An administrative body shall be reimbursed for the expenses related to the enforcement of an individual administrative act by an appropriate natural or legal person.

Article 171 – Insurance of enforcement by penalty

1. A penalty, as a means of enforcement under civil law, shall be applied when the individual administrative act can be enforced only by the declaration of intent of a person concerned.

2. A penalty, as a means of ensuring enforcement, may also be applied if there is a possibility for assignment of an action related to the enforcement of another individual administrative act.

3. The amount of penalty must be defined by the decision on ensuring enforcement. The amount of the penalty may be defined as a total sum or as a sum for each day of violation of an individual administrative act, and/or for every action committed in violation of the individual administrative act.

4. The total amount of penalty must not exceed GEL 1 000 for a natural person and GEL 5 000 for a legal person.

5. The amount of penalty for each day of violation of an individual administrative act or for an action committed in violation of an individual administrative act must not exceed GEL 50 for a natural person and GEL 200 for a legal person.

6. The minimum amount of penalty shall be GEL 5.

7. The amount of penalty shall be transferred to the State Budget or to the budget of a territorial unit.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 172 – Direct coercion

1. If an individual administrative act was not enforced regardless of application of the means of ensuring enforcement specified in Articles 170 and 171 of this Code, an administrative body responsible for enforcement shall have the right to ensure enforcement of the individual administrative act through direct coercion.

2. Direct coercion may also be applied in the case provided for in Article 166(2) of this Code.

3. An administrative body shall apply the means of direct coercion that is provided for by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis.

Chapter XIII – Administrative Proceedings for Administrative Complaints

Article 177 – The right to appeal administrative act

1. An interested party shall have the right to appeal an administrative act issued by an administrative body.

2. Violation by an administrative body of the time limit set for issuing an administrative act shall be considered a refusal to issue the administrative act and it shall be appealed under the procedure determined by this Chapter.

3. An action by an administrative body not related to the issuance of an administrative act shall be appealed under the procedure determined by this Chapter.

4. The decision of an administrative body made with respect to the issue of administrative proceedings shall not be appealed separately, unless it is directly provided for by law or when it violates the right or legitimate interest of a person independently of the appropriate administrative act.

Law of Georgia No 772 of 2 March 2001 – LHG I, No 6, 20.3.2001, Art. 8

Article 178 – The administrative body authorised to review the administrative complaint

1. Unless otherwise determined by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, an administrative complaint shall be reviewed and resolved by an administrative body issuing the administrative act if there is an official at the administrative body superior to the official or to the structural sub-division that has issued the administrative act.

2. A superior administrative body shall review and resolve an appeal filed against an administrative act issued by a senior official of an administrative body.

3. A person may apply to a court under the procedure determined by the Administrative Procedure Code of Georgia for protection of his/her rights and freedoms.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 181 – Contents of the administrative complaint

1. The following details must be specified in an administrative complaint:
 - a) the name of an administrative body with which the administrative complaint is filed;
 - b) the identity and the address of a person filing the administrative complaint;
 - c) the name of an administrative body whose administrative act or action is appealed;
 - d) the name of an administrative act appealed;
 - e) the claim;
 - f) the circumstances on which the claim is based;
 - g) the list of documents attached to the administrative complaint, if any.

¹ 1. An administrative complaint may make a reference to the incompliance of an appealed administrative act with the law on which the claim of the administrative complaint is based. The administrative complaint may also make a reference to the standards of the European Convention on Human Rights and its additional protocols, and test cases of a similar legal issue used by the European Court of Human Rights, the incompliance with which the claim of the administrative complaint may be based on.

2. If the administrative act was forwarded to the person filing the administrative complaint, a copy of the act shall be attached to the administrative complaint.

Law of Georgia No 1922 of 18 October 2022 – website, 24.10.2022

Article 182 – Refusal to accept or review the administrative complaint

1. An administrative body shall refuse to review an administrative complaint if:
 - a) there is a court decision or ruling on waiver of the action by the claimant, an admission of the action by the defendant, or confirmation of conciliation of the parties with respect to the same matter of dispute;
 - b) a case on the dispute between the same parties, over the same matter and on the same ground is pending in court;
 - c) there is a decision of this administrative body or a superior administrative body on the same issue;
 - d) the administrative proceedings are pending at the superior administrative body with respect to the same administrative complaint;
 - e) (Deleted – 20.3.2015, No 3382);
 - f) the administrative complaint has been filed by a person having no right to do so;
 - g) the statutory time limit for filing the administrative complaint has expired.

2. The administrative body shall, before making a decision on refusing to accept or review an administrative complaint, give the person filing the administrative complaint an opportunity to present a personal opinion on the aforementioned issue. The administrative body shall make a decision on accepting the administrative complaint within five days.

Law of Georgia No 3382 of 20 March 2015 – website, 31.3.2015

Article 183 – Time limit for reviewing the administrative complaint

1. Unless otherwise determined by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, an authorised administrative body shall review an administrative complaint and make an appropriate decision within one month.
2. If so provided for by law, when a time limit longer than determined by the legislation for reviewing an administrative complaint is required to establish circumstances of substantial significance to the case, the administrative body shall be authorised to make a substantiated decision on extending the time limit for reviewing the administrative complaint.
3. The administrative body shall make the decision referred to in paragraph 2 of this article not later than seven days after initiating administrative proceedings, and shall immediately notify the appellant.

4. Unless otherwise provided for by law or an administrative act issued on its basis, a time limit for reviewing an administrative complaint may be extended by no longer than one month.

Article 184 – Suspension of validity of the administrative act upon filing the administrative complaint

1. Unless otherwise provided for by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, the validity of an appealed act shall be suspended from the time of registration of an administrative complaint. The administrative body shall issue an individual administrative act about the suspension.

2. The validity of an administrative act shall not be suspended if:

- a) it entails an increase in the state or municipal expenses;
- b) it is an administrative act of the police adopted with respect to the protection of public order;
- c) it has been issued during an emergency situation or martial law on the basis of an appropriate law;
- d) the postponement of enforcement entails considerable material loss or substantially endangers public order or security.

3. A decision on extending the validity of an administrative act based on paragraph 2 of this article shall be made by the administrative body issuing the administrative act or its superior body.

4. The decision by the administrative body referred to in paragraph 3 of this article may be appealed in court under the procedure determined by the legislation.

5. An interested party shall have the right to require that the court extend the validity of a suspended administrative act as provided for by legislation.

Law of Georgia No 6880 of 15 July 2020 – website, 28.7.2020

Article 185 – Procedure for reviewing the administrative complaint

Unless otherwise determined by this Chapter, provisions provided for by Chapter VI of this Code shall be applied during the course of administrative proceedings for an administrative complaint.

Article 186 – Review and resolution of the administrative complaint by the collegial administrative body

The procedure determined by Chapter VII of this Code shall also be applied when reviewing and resolving an administrative complaint by a collegial administrative body.

Article 187 – Inadmissibility of participation of the official that has issued the appealed administrative act in the review of the administrative complaint

A person that has participated in preparation or issuance of an appealed administrative act may not participate in the resolution of an administrative complaint.

Article 188 – The right to modify the administrative act or declare it void

1. Filing of an administrative complaint shall not suspend the right of an administrative body issuing an administrative act to modify the act or declare it invalid or void under the procedure determined by this Code.

2. When modifying an administrative act or declaring it void, an administrative body shall notify an administrative body reviewing the administrative complaint about it within five days.

Article 189 – Obligation to issue the administrative act

1. If an administrative complaint has been filed with regard to violation of the time limit set for issuing an administrative act, filing the appeal shall not suspend the obligation of an administrative body concerned to issue the administrative act, except as determined by law.

2. Unless otherwise determined by law, when the administrative body concerned issues an administrative act, the administrative proceedings regarding the administrative complaint due to the failure to issue an individual administrative act must be terminated.

Law of Georgia No 1801 of 24 June 2005 – LHG I, No 37, 14.7.2005, Art. 245

Article 190 – Continuation of the administrative proceedings when the administrative act is modified or revoked

If an administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act revokes the administrative act or declares it invalid, the review of an administrative complaint must be continued if an interested party requests that the administrative act be declared void.

Article 191 – Withdrawal of the administrative complaint

1. A person filing an administrative complaint shall have the right to withdraw the administrative complaint before an administrative body makes a decision.

2. The withdrawal of the administrative complaint must be made in writing. During an oral hearing, an interested party may also withdraw the administrative complaint verbally.

3. Withdrawal of an administrative complaint shall not suspend its review if failure to review the complaint may entail infringement of, or substantial prejudice to, the state or public interests.

Law of Georgia No 772 of 2 March 2001 – LHG I, No 6, 20.3.2001, Art. 8

Article 192 – The right of the administrative body to admit the administrative complaint

1. A body issuing the appealed administrative act shall have the right to admit an administrative complaint, unless it contradicts the legislation.

2. Unless otherwise determined by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, an administrative body reviewing an administrative complaint shall have the right to continue with the administrative proceedings regardless of the fact that the body issuing the administrative act has admitted the administrative complaint.

Article 193 – The extent of administrative proceedings concerning the administrative complaint

1. Unless otherwise determined by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, an administrative body reviewing an administrative complaint shall review the administrative complaint within the scope of a request specified therein, and where so provided for by law, the administrative body may go beyond the scope of the request.

2. If a decision with respect to only the appealed part of an administrative act cannot be made, a body reviewing an administrative complaint shall, by the written consent of a person who filed the administrative complaint, make a decision in relation to the entire administrative act, and if this person refuses to give his/her consent, the above reviewing body shall make a decision on dismissing the administrative complaint without prejudice, unless it contradicts the law.

Article 194 – Participation of the interested party in the administrative proceedings concerning the administrative complaint

1. An administrative body shall provide an interested party participating in the administrative proceedings with the opportunity to submit a personal opinion.

2. The administrative body shall notify in writing all persons who participated in the administrative proceedings for issuing the appealed administrative act about initiation of the administrative proceedings with regard to an administrative complaint, and shall ensure their participation in the administrative proceedings.

3. Unless otherwise determined by law or a subordinate act issued on its basis, refusal of an interested party to submit a personal opinion, additional information or to attend an oral hearing, shall not suspend the administrative proceedings with regard to the administrative complaint.

Article 195 – Participation of the administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act in the administrative proceedings with regard to the administrative complaint

1. An administrative body reviewing an administrative complaint shall, within five days after registration, send a copy of the administrative complaint and the attached documents to an administrative body that has issued the administrative act.

2. The administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act shall, within five days after receiving a copy of the administrative complaint, submit to the body reviewing the administrative complaint all materials of the administrative proceedings related to the given administrative act and its personal written opinion on the administrative complaint.

3. Unless otherwise determined by law, the administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act shall enjoy the same rights during the course of the administrative proceedings with regard to the administrative complaint as are granted to an interested party participating in the proceedings.

4. The administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act must be represented in the administrative proceedings by an official that has issued the administrative act, or by another authorised person, and if the administrative act has been issued by a collegial administrative body, the aforementioned body shall be represented by a senior official of the collegial body.

5. The administrative body issuing the appealed administrative act may be represented in the administrative proceedings by another employee only with the consent of the administrative body reviewing the administrative complaint.

Article 196 – Submission of additional information by the interested parties

1. Unless otherwise determined by law, a person filing an administrative complaint, and another interested party shall submit their personal opinions, and case-related additional documents not later than five days before an oral hearing is held.

2. An administrative body shall notify a participant of the administrative proceedings in writing of the date of an oral hearing not later than five days before it is held.

Article 197 – Familiarisation with materials of administrative proceedings

1. Parties to the administrative proceedings shall familiarise themselves with the materials of the administrative proceedings in accordance with Article 99 of this Code.

1. An administrative body shall be authorised to review and resolve an administrative complaint without holding an oral hearing if:

a) there are grounds for refusing to review an administrative complaint;

b) all interested parties participating in the administrative proceedings agree to review the case without holding an oral hearing;

2. The administrative body shall specify the grounds for refusing to hold an oral hearing in the administrative act issued with respect to the administrative complaint.

Article 200 – Submission of the personal opinion by the interested party participating in the case after holding oral hearing

If, after holding an oral hearing, an administrative body reviewing an administrative complaint becomes aware of a new circumstance of substantial significance to the case, the interested parties participating in the administrative proceedings must be notified of it and must be given an opportunity to submit their personal opinions on the given issue.

Article 201 – Decision of the administrative body with regard to the review of the administrative complaint

1. After reviewing an administrative complaint, an administrative body shall make one of the following decisions on:

a) granting the administrative complaint;

b) refusing to grant the administrative complaint;

c) partial granting the administrative complaint.

2. If it is necessary to obtain additional materials for a case, the administrative body shall make a decision on postponing the case hearing and shall notify the parties.

3. An administrative body shall check the administrative act concerning an administrative complaint for its legitimacy and appropriateness.

4. An administrative body reviewing an administrative complaint shall verify whether an administrative act complies with a requirement of the law granting any right or advantage to a person filing the administrative complaint.

Article 202 – Issuance of the administrative act with regard to the administrative complaint

A decision made by an administrative body with regard to the review of an administrative complaint shall represent an individual administrative act and it must comply with the requirements established by this Code for an individual administrative act.
